

Sentence starters for different parts of your paragraph or piece of writing.

Main point language	Evidence or example language	Explaining language	Closing sentence language
It can be argued that...            One reason for.....            One idea is....            Firstly....            An important point is.....            A key idea is..... However,            An alternative view is..            A different point of view is...            In contrast....	An example of this is.....            For example....            Evidence to support this idea is.....            To support this argument.....            For instance.....            A good illustration of this is...            This was shown when ....	This shows that..            The reason for this is...            This means that.....            It can be seen from this that.....            Therefore, this example shows that...            This is because...            The evidence points to... Also...            In addition....            Furthermore...            meaning that...            with the result that...            As a result...            Following this...	In summary....            Overall.....            In conclusion....            This proves that...            This demonstrates that....            These reasons show that.....            It is clear that..... ..... shows that....

Introduction language
 There are many reasons why...
 There are a variety of reasons why...
 There are multiple reasons why ...

In this essay I will discuss the importance of ...
 In this essay, the importance of ...will be discussed.

Specifically,
 In particular,

Conclusion language

To summarise,
 It has been shown that.....

.....is more significant than.....

strongly agree / disagree
 partly agree / disagree

In conclusion, the evidence points to....
 Considering ... it can be concluded that ...
 Overall, it can be seen that....

most significant least significant