

Home Learning Monday 22nd June 2020

Hello Poppies, here is your home learning for today:

Phonics

In the last few weeks of the term, we are going to recap and review some of the Set two sounds you have learnt already. These are also online daily with Rosie at <https://www.ruthmiskin.com/en/find-out-more/parents/> (scroll down to Set 2).

If this is too tricky use Set 1. Or if you would like more of a challenge use Set 3.

Today with Rosie we will be learning the sound "ee - what can you see?"

English

Our theme for this week will be weather. Register or log onto Oxford Owl (it is free for parents) <https://www.oxfordowl.co.uk/for-home/find-a-book/library-page/> to access the e-books. Find the Level 1+ book on the shelf called Clothes for Rain. Can you use your phonics to read the words?

Maths

Clothes for Rain - from the book you have just read. Can you find items around your house that are big or small?

The World

In school, we will be creating a weather chart to use and update each day. You could use the weather chart on the link or draw what the weather is like each day in a diary.
